

Sangeeta

• 2:04 PM

Dear

worked very briefly in Mr. Singh's (CMD & Owner) office. I never really had to interact with him, but on few occasions did work at parallel on the CMD's task. He was respectful towards me. But all in all, found him quite forgetful on tasks, a bit lost and lazy on certain tasks (many a time shoving his jobs on other over worked co-colleagues). I had personally fired him as working with the CMD is not an easy task and if interest levels are low one shouldn't work with an owner of a company. He would take leave (especially extended weekends) without notice, which again would leave his co-workers very frustrated. He left with a week's notice, and I am surprised in less than a year he is again leaping out. Not cool for companies that trust and hire and spend time & money training employees.

Rgds,

Sangeeta