

Ante [redacted] • 10:26 AM

hi [redacted] he did perform until certain point of time, when he became demotivated i think. [redacted] can help with networking of any sort but is not the person who can carry on projects or the weight of the team. In terms of communication he was professional but never challenged anything and was mostly agreeing with everything you say and then continuing working like he feels is the best. He could not be rehired in Infobip since his technical and product knowledge or willingness to learn was not adequate. On the scale from 1-10 i would rate him 5, but this is very general and vague. For networking he can help you meet people, here he can get even 7, for execution of projects for example or willingness to learn i would rate it maybe 2-3. So, depending on what you guys are looking for here. Hope it helps and hope you keep this to yourself of course. Cheers,